At a family meeting, Ror declares her purpose: She is an artist.

But she doesn't really know what that means. Raised on a commune, she's never attended a day of school, and has seen little of the outside world. What she knows best is drawing. To her, it's like breathing; it's how she makes sense of the world.

When her father torches the commune—and himself—Ror's life changes. She, her mother and sister end up in a homeless residence in Manhattan, where she runs into trouble—and love—with Trey, the leader of Noise Ink, a graffiti crew.

On the city's streets, and in its museums and galleries, Ror finds herself pulled in different directions. Her father wanted her to make classic art. Noise Ink insists she stay within their lines. Her art teacher urges her to go to college. What does she want?

Ror's journey is a seamless blend of words and pictures, cinematic in its scope--a sharp-edged, indelible work of art that will live inside your head.

Mamie Crossett:

As a scholar exactly feel bored to help reading. If their teacher questioned them to go to the library or even make summary for some reserve, they are complained. Just little students that has reading's heart or real their pastime. They just do what the educator want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading significantly. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring and also can't see colorful pics on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important to suit your needs. As we know that on this period, many ways to get whatever we would like. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this Into the Dangerous World can make you experience more interested to read.
