The Other Half Of Me (Soul Brothers) (Volume 3) D.M. Mortier

I can't make you love me... Seth Harjo loves women! Black, white, Hispanic, Asian are all given equal access to the star quarterback's bed. No matter their size, shape or color, he enjoys them all indiscriminately. At least that's what he used to say before his heart is irrevocably crushed by Jasmine Blackman. He meets her while playing touch football with her brothers and accidentally tackles her to the ground. The instant his eyes collide with hers, it is love at first sight. She has four massive brothers who adamantly oppose his amorous pursuit. But nothing except death could keep him away from her. For months he is the happiest man in the world. He finally has the woman of his dreams, someone who loves him as much as he loves her. But sometimes love isn't enough. When she walks away, his life is a black void without her. Why is she back demanding closure? How can he possibly trust her again? How do you mend a determined heart... Jasmine Blackman knows better than to fall in love with a professional athlete. Growing up with four brothers in the profession, she knows their player ways. She has no excuse for falling for bad boy Seth Harjo, star quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys. But the heart wants what it wants, and nothing he does dissuades her. The instant he flashes those golden boy dimples, she is lost. Ignoring the objections of her brothers and her own common sense, she mistakenly believes they have a future together. Confronted by his betrayal, she has no choice but to leave while she still has some pride left. How do you move on when the love of your life still commands so much of your heart?
