Finding the Forest Peter P. Bundy

Finding the Forest is a series of vignettes that offer a different vision of the forest. This vision challenges many of today's assumptions about trees, preservation and forestry practices. It's a journey into the heart of the northwoods and a vision of land stewardship in the 21st century. Peter Bundy is a certified forester who works with private landowners on stewardship plans, reforestation, harvesting and habitat restoration projects. He has a Master's Degree in forestry and has conducted oak regeneration research for the University of Minnesota. He currently owns and operates his own private consulting firm in northern Minnesota.
